

Study Tour to Shanghai for the Auxiliary Medical Service Cadet Corps (New Territories West)
(23 - 27 July 2025)

A 5-day Study Tour to Shanghai was organized by the Auxiliary Medical Service (AMS) Cadet Corps from 23 July 2025 (Wednesday) to 27 July 2025 (Sunday).

This study tour offers cadets the opportunity to interact with locals, deepen their understanding of Chinese history, culture, and recent developments, and learn diverse medical knowledge, broadening their horizons. Through this transformative experience, students can embrace their heritage, honor Chinese values, strengthen their sense of national identity, foster a love for the Motherland, and contribute to a positive atmosphere for safeguarding national security.

This study tour includes visits to key locations, including Shanghai Medical College of Fudan University, Shanghai United Family Hospital, the training base of the Shanghai Special Police Department, Shanghai City History Development Museum, Shanghai Art Museum, City God Temple of Shanghai, Yu Garden, COMAC and the headquarters of Meituan in Shanghai.

Group photo at the training base of the Shanghai Special Police Department

Students learn about various military equipment at the training base of the Shanghai Special Police Department

Students learn about Chinese modern art at the Shanghai Art Museum

Students visit COMAC, gaining a deeper appreciation for aviation technology

Students listen attentively to a professor in Shanghai Medical College of Fudan University